Senate Hearings on Prepetual'64 Coinage Begin Important Speculative Market Out: Warning To Coin Trading!

Vol. 1 No. 26

COMMITTEE hearings on the retention of the "1964" date for all U.S. coinage began July 21. The announcement was made by Senator A. Willis Robertson (D., Va.) before the Senate. The hearings conducted by the Committee on Banking & Currency examine Senate bill S. 2950 "authorizing the Mint to inscribe the figure "1964" on all coins minted until adequate supplies of coins are available.'

Senator Robertson's announcement constitutes a clear and unequivocal indictment of the coin collectors, allegedly responsible for the Nation's coin shortage; indeed the Nation's coin shortage; indeed he stated:

"S. 2950 is an additional measure to help solve this coin shortage problem. The Treasury Department, the Bureau of the Mint, and the Federal Reserve Board believe that the retention of the date "1964" on all coins will discourage the hearding of will discourage the hoarding of vast numbers of coins by coin dealers and collectors. The sheer number of the coins will make them less valuable to collectors and dealers. This bill is being opposed by many of them. "The hoarding of coins by dealers and collectors is, of course, not the only cause of this coin shortage, but it is a factor which must be considered in any attempt to solve the problem. I have been informed that individual collectors who in the past have been content with one coin of a special kind are now buying rolls and even bags of coins.

"Dealers are advertising bags and rolls of 1964 uncirculated coins for sale at premium prices and the advertisements do not fy any limit on the amounts which may be purchased.

"The economic effect of a severe coin shortage to our banks, stores, turnpike authorities, vending machine companies and other businesses is very grave. The impact that this bill will have on coin collectors and dealers in this country must be weighed against this economic fact."

It was hoped these hearings could begin in a climate of impartiality; Senator Robertson's strong wording, however, precludes any moderation.

Coin Collector's Blamed The responsibility for the current coin shortage is attributed solely to coin collectors. The retention of "1964" on all coinage in itself proves this fact. Indeed coin operated vending machines and other coin operated devices do not have any preference for one date or the other.

The most objectionable portion of Senator Robertson's introduc-tion can be found in his very choice words "coin collectors". Assuming there could be found some truth in the allegations set forth in support of bill S. 2950, the blame could not be directed at the "coin collector" but should be directed at the bank employees supplying large quantities of coins e.g. bags or multiple rolls to hoarders or organized syndicates. The existence of such persons must be established beyond any reasonable doubt before their responsibility can be proven.

The individual coin collector who fills a few empty spaces in a coin album can and should not be held responsible for the Nation's coinage woes.

It is in this climate of misinformation, prejudice and guilt by association that the hearings on the retention of "1964" on all coins are beginning. Once passed, the measure is here to stay for a long time. Passage of the measure will unequivocally indict the numismatic community beyond the point of whitewash or possible

Guilt By Association
The ground work for a future debased silver coinage will thus be laid and under the "guilt by association" concept this will then be attributed to the consequences of coin hoarding. The following persons have presented testimony before the committee: Robert A. Wallace, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury; Eva Adams, Direc-tor of the Mint; G. Edward Coop-. American Bankers Association; Margo Russel, Executive Editor of Coin World Newspaper.

The stand on the question of the American Bankers Association has long been known since the spring meeting of this organiza-tion when a resolution was passed identical with the provisions of bill S. 2950. In Washington, however, there is amost certitude for the success of the measure regardless of what transpired during the committee hearings.

Free Market Axed

The U.S. Senate recently passed a bill prohibiting the trading of potato futures. There is seemingly no connection between trading in potato futures on a commodity exchange and the trading of coins on numismatic exchanges.

Both have one thing in common, however; they provide speculators with a place to risk their money in the expectation of realizing a reasonable return. In doing so, they assume a risk which in the case of potato futures serves an economic function.

The economic function served by coin trading remains a debatable issue. However, the numismatic industry employs thousands, engages in active interstate commerce and assures monetary liquidity and these factors alone constitute economic functions. Even if silver prices were to exceed their present $1.293 per ounce level, silver coin hoards would eventually appreciate considerably in value and ultimately find their way back to the market thus stabilizing silver prices. This would be a prima face example of economic function!

Major Criticisms

S. 332 is a bill "prohibiting trading in Irish potato futures on example of example of the property of the property of the property of the prices."

commodity exchanges"; it is sponsored by Senator Edmond S. Muskie (D., Ma.). He offered the following arguments against the continuation of potato futures trading: a) An overwhelming majority of growers and dealers in actual potatoes are strongly opposed to futures trading and urge its immediate elimination. b) Perishable products such as potatoes and onions are not adaptable to constructive and orderly futures trading. c) The potato futures market is used only to a negligible extent for hedging and much of this is done in a manner damaging to the price structure. d) Futures trading causes confusion, disorder, and price gyrations. e) The potato futures market is often completely dominated and controlled by speculative interests. The Commodity Exchange Authority has proven instances of manipulation in which traders in both potatoes and onions have completely dominated the market. Generally these activities have featured heavy selling accompanied by deliveries and threats of deliveries which cause panic conditions. f) Growers are demoralized and confused by the antics of the futures market. This causes failure to make constructive efforts to solve other problems.

The measure is also favored by Senator George David Aiken (Rt., Vt.) who offered the following comments, however: "The bill is opposed by certain elements of the OVERPRICED ???? We Think So !!!

The 1964 Proof Set is now commanding a price roughly equal to the 1956, yet it has a proposed mintage of 7 times that of the 1956 set. It is commanding three times the price of the 1961 and 1962 Proof Sets which have 60% the mintage. This is a direct contradiction to all basic laws of economics. May we suggest that you sell all 1964 Proof Sets and buy Proof Sets in proportion to the actual market values.

Mid Year 1964, A Numismatic Panorama Picture of Troubled Past, Uncertain Future

by C. F. Verbeke

In the preceding week's issue, Mr. Verbeke explored the events of the early days of 1964. Among the items covered were, issuance of Canadian proof like sets in abnormally large numbers; cessation of order acceptance of U.S. sets; reopening of order acceptance and immediate reclosure; coverage given the coin industry by national publications; attempted S.E.C. regulation of some of the larger coin brokers; the run on the Treasury by the silver dollar seekers; the issuance of the Kennedy half dollar and its disappearance; opening and closing of order acceptance of U.S. mint sets; early cutoff by the Royal Canadian mint of proof like set orders and some of the many regulatory measures under consideration by the U.S. Congress. This week Mr. Verbeke goes into the occurences of the recent portion of 1964 in de-

Readers are reminded that the next issue of PACE will carry a complete statistical coverage of the first half of Renewed concern over dwindling silver supplies was expressed in the U.S. Senate by Senator Jordan of Idaho when on May 21 he offered a series of suggestions to meet the crisis:

a) The amount of silver in the dollar and subsidiary coinage should be reduced substantially;

b) Acceleration of the replacement of silver certificates by the new $1 Federal Reserve notes, and a new issue of $1 silver certificates based on the decreased silver content of the dollar;

c) Authorize a crash program for minting of new coins with reduced silver content, including the use of private facilities for mint-

d) Set aside a strategic stockpile of silver containing a minimum of 500 million ounces of silver to serve as a reserve in emergencies. The need for such a reserve was amply demonstrated in both World Wars. No reserve

e) Establishment by Congress of a Joint Committee on Monetary Policy to inquire into these problems and recommend measures to insure adequate supplies of monetary metals.

News of the current U.S. boom in coin investing reached Great Britain. The Financial Times of London published a study in depth and appraisal of the situation. Oddly enough, this article was mainly based on an interview with prestigious Stack's, New York dealers of strong collectors and anti investors suasion.

The beginning of June was marked by new Congressional recriminations on the noticeable absence of Kennedy half dollars in circulation. Miss Sylvia Porter issued a stern warning through a leading county seat daily: "The coin collecting and coin hoarding craze is reaching the proportions of madness". Thus the slow process of conditioning the public mind for graver events proceeded.

An event of real numismatic interest took place when Rep. Chamberlain of Michigan introduced a petition before the House calling for the issuance of a commemorative copper penny to honor copper production in Michigan. No action has been taken to date on the proposal and its chances ap-

An all out offensive for the resumption of minting silver dollars took place in the historical June 3 U.S. Senate session. The forces in favor of the measure led by Senators Mansfield and Humphrey scored a major victory by their eloquent presentation. Often on the fringe of ridicule, the session was to leave a long lasting impression on the Senate as could be witnessed subsequently when the Senate Appropriations Committee reinstated the $45,000,000 earmarked for the resumption of silver dollar minting earlier defeated in the House.

News of a $75,000,000 gold transaction with strong numismatic overtones conducted by a Scotia Bank and London's Montagu syndicate leaked through at mid June. The news comes in the face of all out domestic efforts to discourage member banks to factor even small numismatic commitments.

The Royal Canadian Mint announced a design change on all Canadian coins beginning 1965. The obverse Queen Elizabeth II likeness will be replaced by a new design, result of Arnold Machin's masterly hand. Final approval is pending before the Canadian Cabinet. Other Commonwealth Countries are expected to follow the

Came the fatal and untimely Treasury press release climaxing twelve long months of harrassement for the numismatic community; its content left no doubt as to official intentions, but what's more, its issuance foretells stronger and more drastic measures. Highlights of the release include:

By next June. the program will boost coin production to an annual rate of over 9 billion new coins - more than double the 4.3 billion level for fiscal 1964 and triple the 3 billion level for fiscal 1961. For the last six months of this year - normally a time of peak demand for coins - the program will mean a 75 percent increase in coin production over the same period last year, a rise to 3.5 billion new coins from the 2 billion produced in the last half of

Steps already taken to expand current production of coins include the purchase of rolled nickel strip for the making of all fivecent coins - thus freeing equipment for other production - and the inauguration of a continuous 7-day, 24-hour production schedule at the nation's two Mints, in Denver and Philadelphia.

These actions will increase production for the coming fiscal year by 600 million coins, bringing total budgeted production up to some 5 billion coins.

Followed an outline of new and

1. Beginning early in July, bronze strip for pennies will be purchased (in addition to the nickel strip already being acquired for five-cent coins), thus freeing all melting, casting and rolling operations for the production of more silver coins.

2. New coin presses (used to imprint the design of the coin) are being ordered for delivery early this fall and additional stamping machines, which can be converted for Mint use, are being acquired from the surplus stocks of the Department of Defense, the General Services Administration, and private industry.

3. In December, when current orders have been filled, the proof coin operation (the production of special sets of coins for collectors) will be suspended. Those of its presses that are suitable will be converted to allow higher speeds and will be devoted to the production of coins for circula-

4. As additional presses become available, production of annealed blanks (round pieces of metal the actual size of the coin softened to take the die) for nickels and pennies will be temporarily shifted to the U.S. Assay Office in San Francisco, thus permitting the Mints to concentrate on the final stages of the production of all

5. The Congress will be asked to continue the 1964 date on all coins indefinitely, thus eliminating any possible incentives for keeping 1964 coins out of circulation for speculative purposes.

Now remains the key issue, the silver content of U. S. coinage; while of incidental numismatic importance, its economic meaning is confronting the Nation with widespread implications.

No doubt, the public mind is being prepared for a drastic change in official silver policies. Chances are the true colors of the cards will be shown after the forthcoming fall elections when it is politically safe to mention silver "revaluation".

In spite of adverse developments in an uncomfor phere, the numismatic market continues its course and has shown no apparent signs of weakness.

Asides from the unfortunate decision to discontinue proof sets after completion of current 1964 orders, all other proposed measures, i.e., 1964 dates at perpetuity, reduction of silver content, will ultimately result in higher prices for U. S. coinage of pre 1964 vintage. Foreign coins are most likely to share in this numismatic enthusiasm, especially denominations reminiscent of U.S. coinage or with high silver con-

Since the S. E. C. stepped in last Spring to scrutinize numismatic dealings with regard to coin investment implications, this agency has undergone a number of changes. Not the least, the impending departure of its energetic Chairman, William Cary.

More recently a seat on the Commission was left vacant by the expiration of the term of J. M. Whitney, a Republican member.

President Johnson's choice for the position: Judge Hamer H. Budge, "conservative" district judge of Idaho appointed in 1960. The appointment came under fire in the Senate, partly prompted by criticism directed at the Presidential appointee by the New York Times and the Washington

Both newspapers, immensely sympathetic towards "crusading" efforts by the commission expressed concern over the nomination. Major objections included inexperience of the appointee on securities matters, tendencies towards apeasement of the securities industry and a multitude of hypothetical and ill defined rea-

The Washington Post exploited the opportunity to coin the word "clientism" the meaning of which was explained by Senator Prox-mire before the Senate session dealing with approval of the appointee. Stated Senator Proxmire: "The Washington Post's point concerning "clientism" is extremely important today. Regulatory bodies have great power. Some people feel that in the aggregate they have more power than Congress has; and that they constitute the most powerful element of our Federal Government. Regulatory bodies have great power and discretion. They are constantly subject to extreme pressures by the people whom they regulate. They see them constantly. They became friends with them. And naturally commissioners like other human beings want to be liked. They are open to the importunings, the pressure, the tendency to cooperate by not protecting the public interest. It takes a man of remarkable character and objectivity, a man who has a sensitive conscience and a deep understanding of his responsibility to the public, to resist that kind of pressure. This is particularly true in the Securities and Exchange Commission.'

Over the objections of a few members of the Senate, the appointment was confirmed. Judge Budge comes to the Commission with a reputation for wishing "cooperation" rather than regula-tions of the securities industries.

In itself the appointment can be construed as favorable for the coin business in that this new member of the S.E.C. team may well profess the desire not to seek new areas of regulation, i.e., the coin investment business, but rather such consolidation of the existent regulatory areas. This view has been attributed to President Johnson himself and it can be expected that these principles will be found in Chairman Cary's suc-

grain-trading business. I assume they feel that if trading in potato futures is eliminated, some efforts may be made to eliminate trading in some other commodities and they are, therefore, apprehensive." Opposition to the measure came from Senator Paul Douglas of Illinois whose first loyalty naturally goes to the Chicago Board of Trade. Millions of bushels of grains are traded there and no one has ever questioned the economic functions performed by this exchange short of Karl Marx or Lord Keynes.

New York Mercantile Exchange

A last minute plea in the form of a statement was filed by Senator Jacob Javits of New York to maintain trading in potato futures. The Senator from New York in doing so expressed the views of the New York Mercantile Exchange where potato futures are traded.

The measure, seemingly unrelated to coin trading, is very much related insofar the success of its passage can be mainly attributed to the public resentment against wide speculative price fluctuations.

No one better expressed concern over the outcome than Senator Paul Douglas when he stated: "I am however somewhat distressed by the obvious turn which Congress is taking. In 1958, we prohibited trading in futures on onions, and now we are prohibiting the trading in futures on potatoes. What will be next? Apples? Eggs? Butter? Cases can be made in connection with all of them. I am afraid that we may have allowed ourselves to be influenced by current prejudices not founded on facts.

The numismatic community has received adverse publicity as of late and during the past year has had a bad press. Most common accusations articulately voiced in tabloid rags have included charges of excessive speculation, hoarding, crimes against the economy, usurpation of the Kennedy effigy and other arguments ad nauseam.

Warning To Coin Exchanges

Should these charges gain widespread attention, chances are that pressure groups could prompt legislation urging the abolition of bulk coin trading via teletype. Therefore any attempts leading to the abolition of existant free markets or organized exchanges must necessarily be considered detrimental to the very existence of every organized coin exchange.

These developments more than ever point out the absolute necessity for numismatic exchanges to adopt the strictest measures of self regulation. Every effort should be made by the exchanges to curb excessive speculative maneuvers by members which would be contrary to the public interest.

Retention of "1964" on Coins Passes Senate Damaging Testimonies Presented at Hearing

by C. F. Verbeke

EXCERPTS of Senator A. Willis Robertson's (D, Virginia) opening statement: "The first evidence that we had that there was hoarding of coins was when nearly all the silver dollars disappeared. Then we started taking an inventory and found that there were nearly 500 million silver dollars outstanding and practically none in circulation. And after a once very large supply, only 3 million are left in the Treasury and those were impounded. It was clearly established that either dealers or hoarders had bought up silver dollars and were taking them out of circulation for speculative purposes. When they expected to get a premium for the ultimate sale of that dollar or melt it down for silver, we do not know. But the shortage became apparent last

". . . there is no doubt about it that dealers and hoarders are keeping coins out of circulation. Now just what they expect to gain, or how, we don't know ex-

'I remember when I was a young man, there was a man out in Chicago who cornered the wheat market. He made everybody pay through the nose for the future delivery of wheat. passed a law that nobody could do that again to the consuming public. Here we have a situation where some dealers and hoarders have created an artificial demand for coins by trying to corner the market. This is the effect of it. So all we are going to do in this bill is to say that between the right of a dealer or a hoarder to make a profit on the scarcity of coins of a certain date, and the interests of the economy of this Nation, the necessity of our banks and of our merchants to have enough coins with which to do the money work of the Nation, we will put the public interest first. We will continue the date 1964 in effect until there is no longer any incentive for anybody to hoard pennies and nickels and dimes of 1964."

. . the issue here is shall we permit a very limited number of dealers and hoarders to greatly interfere with the business activities of our Nation.'

It is evident by the tone of the Chairman's opening statement that he finds the coin community guilty of causing the coin short-age. This attitude must weigh heavily upon the remaining portion of the hearing which continues with testimony of Robert A. Wallace, assistant Secretary of the Treasury. He stated in essence: ". . . We believe that by continuing to use the 1964 date on coins, the hoarding of newly minted coins for speculative purposes will be greatly discouraged, if not discontinued altogether.'

"There are two kinds of hoarding which are causing difficulties. First, there is commercial hoarding. One form of this occurs when businessmen hold coins because they are afraid that if they return them to the banks they will not be able to get new supplies in sufficient quantities to meet their needs for change. Then there are

Washington, D.C., Friday, July 24, 1964. The Senate passed S.2950, authorizing the Mint to inscribe the figure "1964" on all coins minted until adequate supplies are available, after adopting an amendment by Senator Robertson of a technical corrective nature. Follows the amendment: " . . . all coins minted after the date of enactment of this act until July 1 or January 1, whichever date first occurs after the date on which the Secretary of the Treasury determines that adequate supplies of coins are available, shall be inscribed with the figure "1964" in lieu of the year of the coinage."

Senator Robertson elaborated on the bill: "The purpose of the amendment is to provide the mint with a little more leeway in returning to a new date. If the coin shortage is eliminated by July 1 of next year, as we hope it can be, the mint can place the date '1965' on coins for the remainder of the calendar year.

coin brokers, who secure coins from vending machine companies, toll roads, and other coin sources and sell them for a premium because of the shortage. Understandably, it is the Treasury's policy to make coins available for commercial needs without the need for payment of premiums. The other kind of hoarding is based on numismatic speculation; that is, speculators all over the country buy up new coins by the roll or bag and hold them off the market in anticipation of increasing numismatic value, or sell them only at a substantial profit.'

"But the real problem here comes with the speculators, whose present activities are cutting into us in a very damaging way. Speculators do not buy merely one of each coin. They buy them by the roll and by the bag, put them in vaults or in their basements and hold them back in anticipation of high profits in the future. Their activities are not illegal but they must not expect the Treasury Department to adapt its policies to help them make higher profits especially at great inconvenience to the rest of the country.'

"It seems fair to ask how we know that speculation in new coins is a substantial factor in the current coin shortage. Permit me to touch on some of the more obvious evidence. Who can forget the run on silver dollars last March? There are an estimated 400 million of them in the country today, but for all practical purposes they have disappeared from circulation. When I first came to the Treasury Department in 1961, silver dollars were a drug on the market. We had 160 million of them in various values. Now we have paid all but 3 million of them out but virtually none of these are in circulation. We have made over 100 million Kennedy half dollars and they are only just beginning to be seen in retail trade.'

"Are these the activities of coin collectors who deal in rare coins? Of course not. As I have pointed out, a coin collector may desire to keep his collection complete, but the idea of a true collector holding new 1964 coins in rolls and bags is ridiculous. Such activity can only be for speculative purposes. The growth of coin exchange activity has developed into a bid-ask market conducted through more than 10 teletype services throughout the United States. With the teletype, a small dealer in a remote part of the United States can offer bulk quantities of coins as readily as his counterparts in large metropolitan areas. This is quite a contrast to a few years ago when coin trading took place at meetings of local coin clubs. The growth in coin exchange activity is also indicated by the development of public investment in this field. Within the past year, a publicly held corporation has been formed for investing in coins and has filed a prospectus with the Securities and Exchange Commission for this purpose. Meanwhile, the SEC has, for the first time, found it necessary to take three injunctive actions in connection with offers to accept investments in coin trading ac-

According to one survey of the numismatic coin market, total sales for the first half of this year have already exceeded sales for the entire year 1962, indicating a volume in excess of $200 million this year, double the 1962 volume. This may be understated. According to the April 23 issue of the Wall Street Journal, the largest of the 10 teletype systems alone "has an average daily trading volume of $1 million." While the volume of coin exchange business has doubled, there are other indications that speculative activities are holding new coins out of circulation. The ratio of coins in circulation to total retail sales of nondurable goods establishments has jumped tremendously during the past year or two. So has the number of coins per ca-

I, therefore, believe that the enactment of this bill will result in an additional billion coins becoming available for circulation late this year and early next year. These additional coins would result from: 1) Speculators putting 1964 coins back into circulation because they will be too numerous to sell for more than face value. 2) Lack of a new series of 1965 coins from two mints for speculators and to a lesser extent, collectors, to buy up and take out of circulation."

"On total coinage, our doubled production will call for an additional expenditure of $10 million, but we will make between $30 and $40 million extra income in seigniorage, which is the difference between the cost of metal and face value of the coin.'

Upon conclusion of Mr. Wallace's testimony, Chairman Robertson added: "About the right to protect the public from speculators and the right of speculators to make a fast buck, we have on our calendar, unanimously reported from the Agriculture Committee, a bill that absolutely prohibits speculation in Irish potato futures. Now there are some dealers in Irish potatoes and they like to buy and sell futures. We are going to put them out of business."

"Excessive speculation in any commodity under contracts of sale of such commodity for future delivery made on or subject to the rules of contract markets causing sudden or unreasonable fluctuations or unwarranted changes in the price of such commodity, is an undue and unnecessary burden on interstate commerce in such commodity. For the purpose of diminishing, eliminating, or preventing such burden, the Commission — that is the Commodity Exchange Commission — shall, from time to time after due notice and opportunity, of hearing, by order, proclaim and fix such limits on the amount of trading under contracts of sale — and so

This is a new approach, coin trading is now being compared directly to some of the fraudulent manipulations which led up to the passage of the bill prohibiting potato futures trading.

The next witness to testify before the Committee is Mrs. Margo Russell, Executive Editor of Coin World Newspaper, Sidney, Ohio. Excerpts of her testimony follow: "Mr. Chairman and members of the committee, it is a privilege to appear before you in behalf of the coin collecting hobby. We have long noted your fairmindedness and your wisdom (sic) as we have regularly reported your coin-related activities for readers of Coin World during the past several years." She continued:

"We are told one of the large coin dealers' teletypewriter systems averaged a million dollars daily in gross trade in April. There are three national and a dozen regional TT systems. We have no egotistical intent as we frequently mention our publication from this point—we are attempting to give you a picture of the hobby our growth has paralleled.'

"We have no commercial interests in the hobby as such-no member of our editorial or advertising staff is allowed to deal in coins. We are a coin collectors' newspaper, established for the sole purpose of serving the coin collector."

"Because we have the coin collectors' interest as our prime interest, we devised our own editorial and advertising codes, starting in 1960, in an effort to protect and safeguard the average coin collector from doubtful practices developing from people with larceny in their hearts.'

"We suddenly found ourselves one of the prime controls in the hobby-simultaneously selling and policing. We must be doing a good job-we get heck from both factions." And added Mrs. Russell:

'We are fearful that if the 1964 date is continued on coins, the hoarders and speculators, ever present 'percentage boys' will then turn to coinage of past years. Pre-1964-dated coins will flow into their hands later to be sold to collectors at a premium. As astute students of human relations, you gentlemen know one may freeze dates but one cannot freeze larceny in the heart. The 'percentage boys' will always be with us if not in coins, then in some other line."

WAIT

Take just one minute and read this comment.

Let me give you a few facts about Canadian coinage.

The United States government has announced its intentions to discontinue production of Proof Sets.

Where will all the funds that, up until this time, have gone for the purchase of U.S. Proof Sets, go?

This money will go for the purchase of Canadian Proof-Like Sets and Prooflike Dollars.

Even prior to the announcement by the U.S. government, the Canadian mint was refusing orders for these sets and dollars due to the fact that their present facilities were operating at maximum capacity.

Compare the low mintage of the Canadian mint to those of the U.S. mint.

You will notice a drastic difference between mintages and current price ranges.

Also you will note the improved quality in the coins during the last few years as compared with prior years.

We invest and support the Canadian Proof Like Set and Proof Like Dollar because of:

- (1) The increased interest and price rise in these Canadian Coins.
- (2) The announcement of no more U.S. Proof sets.
- (3) The low mintage-price relationship.
- (4) The improved quality of these coins.
- (5) The new design on the Canadian dollar creating a new series.
- (6) The forthcoming adoption of a new design in all denominations for 1965.

We offer to you an opportunity with unlimited investment potential.

Study the facts that we have mentioned. Compare our prices with those published by any other firm in any other publication.

We will be glad to give you any additional information or prices that you may request. Please write or call.

nual convention of the American Numismatic Association, which is the largest organization of coin collectors in the world.

Of course most dealers belong to the ANA also, and most of the largest dealers in the country will be represented at the bourse which is held in conjunction with the convention.

As a rule, trends of coin values are set at ANA conventions because there are so many dealers gathered in one place buying and selling all types of coins and numismatic items. Yes, there is a difference between coins and numismatic items, as currency, transportation tokens, and even certain types of shells still used in the South Seas are numismatic items, whereas coins as we speak of them are the types of coins generally used for commerce and made out of metal.

Of course some of the coins may have been used for commerce many many years ago. but we wish to eliminate many substitutes for coins such as medals and tokens which are numismatic items too.

Usually when a bunch of dealers get together at a large coin show certain items will seem to get "hot", and certain items will seem to be "dead". It is funny, but it always seems that about half of the dealers are out trying to buy the same thing, and at the same time. When an occasion like this arises, it is a seller's paradise, and the prices of the items in demand go up by leaps and bounds. Last year the ANA convention was held in Denver, and we remember that one of the hottest items at the Denver show were uncirculated rolls of 1950-D nickels. At that time they reached a new high of close to $700.00 per roll which was just about $200.00 per roll more than they had been selling for a little as two weeks before the convention started.

The reason for the $700.00 price at the time was that there were more buyers of 1950-D nickels at the Denver show than there were sellers. When the general public found out about all the action that had taken place in Denver regarding the 1950-D rolls of nickels, they clamored for some rolls too, and this drove the price up to about the $800.00 mark within a couple of weeks. Within a few weeks the clamor for 1950-D nickels subsided along with the great demand for them, and the prices slowly started to creep downward for several months until they dropped to about $675.00 per roll. They have received two small pushes since that time and now the current price for a roll of uncirculated 1950-D nickels is around the $900.00 mark.

From the foregoing information on the prices of 1950-D nickels during the past twelve months you can readily see that there is a correct time to select any particular coin or roll of coins for investment possibilities. People who bought the nickels early this spring paid a lot less for them than the people who purchased them last fall. Many people like to buy coins on a rising market because they figure that they had better get ahold of some before the prices go up any higher. This is fine if you know how high the prices are going to go before they level off. The only problem is that after the leveling off period, which is usually just three or four weeks, the prices will usually decline for a while.

The history on key rolls such as the 1950-D nickels is that the decline after the rise will still be above the previous high. Therefore it would seem that whatever we paid for a roll of 1950-D nickels would be all right if we just held on to them long enough. This is true for this roll and for several other key rolls of coins, but it is not true for all uncirculated rolls of coins at all. We know of several instances where people have bought inflated rolls of coins several years ago and are still waiting for the prices to go back up so that they can at least break even on their investments.

The prime factor to take into consideration when investing in uncirculated rolls of coins is the availability of the rolls. As we explained several weeks ago, often the mintage figures of coins do confuse people who are tryin to invest scientifically. Manveoins with relatively low mintages are readily available and on the market at all times, while certain coins that show high mintage figures are practically unavailable. A good illustration

REGGIE PROPER

A.N.A. Member 2910 E. 4th Street, Tucson, Arizona Mail: P.O. Box 2909. Tucson, Arizona of this fact are the 1931-D ard 1931-S Lincoln cents in uncirculated condition. There were only 866,000 1931-S cents struck, while there were 4,480,000 1931-D cents struck in the same year. In uncirculated condition, the current Redbook, 1965 edition, list both of these coins at $85.00. The only thing is, just try to find an uncirculated roll of 1931-D cents. We ourselves have had dozens of rolls of 1931-S cents pass through our hands in the past few years, but we have never owned a roll of uncirculated 1931-D cents, and as a matter of fact we have only seen one complete roll of them since we have been in the coin business. The 1931-S Lincoln cent is the second scarcest cent in the whole series. We think that this fact keeps the price of the uncirculated coins way up there even though it seems that almost half of the original mintage must still be around in uncirculated

On the other hand, and we must believe this because of the availability, most of the 1931-D cents did get into circulation and they are quite rare uncirculated. As a matter of fact, when you compare the prices on these two cents in the various grades of circulated condition you will see that the 1931-D cents are relatively cheap as compared to the 1931-S. The main thing that keeps the price of the 1931-S cents advancing is the demand for them by collectors. There are more collectors all the time, and it seems that most of them start off on cents because they can get a good start out of pocket change.

Actually over 80% of the dates and mintmarks in the complete Lincoln series can be found in circulation today - if you have enough patience and a source of cents to look through. Then when you reach a point where you can't find the toughies, that is where the coin dealer comes in to the picture. If you want to invest in Lincoln cents the best way to get first hand knowledge is to look through cents for a few weeks. You will soon find out which are the scarce one without referring to the book.

Bowers on World Coins

Q. David Bowers

THIS week we review the spectrum of English proof sets. Familiarly known as "specimen sets" these have been favorites of collectors all over the world. During the past 150 years one dozen different specimen proof sets have been issued to collectors by the Royal Mint. In addition, a few selected sets were distributed here and there to officials, but the following listing represents the sets which are generally available.

Detailed information concerning early English sets is sketchy at best. Information concerning transactions of 19th century English proof sets is not abundant, so our prices represent estimates based on available auction and sale records.

1826 George IV. Specimen proof set issued upon the occasion of the revised coinage design. This is the first specimen proof set of the Royal Mint offered for general public distribution. Earlier sets such as the 1740 copper, 1746 silver and 1797 Soho copper were not generally available on a widespread basis. The 1826 set contains the farthing, halfpenny, penny, sixpence, shilling, half crown, crown, half sovereign, sovereign, two pounds gold and five pounds gold. These were issued in a velvet-lined oval case. The number of sets minted is not available, but we would estimate it as less than 150 sets. The current market value is in the $2,500.00 to $3,000.00 range

1931 William IV. Proof set issued to commemorate the first coinage of this monarch. It contains the farthing, halfpenny, penny, Maundy set, sixpence, shilling, half crown, crown, half sovereign, sovereign, and two pounds gold. Issued in a round case. There are several variance of this set. Occasionally a set is seen with a five pound gold piece. This five pound gold piece is not a regular issue, but is an 1831 crown specimen striking in gold. Strictly speaking, it is not a five pound gold piece at all, but it is a variant of a crown. Also, 1831 proof sets are sometimes seen with a crown dated 1834 rather than 1831. These sets were undoubtedly sets kent on hand at the mint and distributed in later years. For some reason 1834 crowns were substituted for the 1831's. We estimate that fewer than 150 1831 sets were originally issued. The current value for a set dated 1831 up to and including the two pound gold piece would be approximately $3,000.00. A set realized 1.050 pounds several months ago at a London auction. On an individual basis the 1834 crown in proof brings $200.00 to $300.00 more than an 1831 crown; so the price of a set containing the 1834 crown can be judged accordingly.

1839 Queen Victoria. Although some beginning was made in Victorian coinage in 1838, the first Victorian proof set was not issued until 1839. This magnificent and extremely attractive set is famous for the five pound gold piece therein . . . known as the "Una and the Lion" piece. The 1839 proof set complete contains the quarter farthing, half farthing, farthing, halfpenny, penny, Maundy set, groat, sixpence, shilling, half crown, crown, half sovereign, sovereign and five pound gold, originally issued in a spadeshaped case. Current market value: $3,700.00 to $4,000.00. By themselves single 1839 five pound pieces have touched the $2,000.00 mark on several instances.

1853, Queen Victoria proof set. Contains the quarter farthing, half farthing; farthing, halfpenny, penny, Maundy set, groat, six pence, shilling, florin, half crown, Gothic crown, half sovereign and sovereign. The few specimens we have seen have been in differently shaped cases. The 1853 English proof set must be rated as the rarest of all regular English specimen sets; in several years of looking we have never owned a specimen nor have we seen one offered. The current market value is theoretical at best, but certainly $2,000.00 or more.

1887 Queen Victoria proof set. Mintage: 797 sets. Issued on the occasion of Queen Victoria's Golden Jubilee. Commemorating 50 years of Queen Victoria's reign, this set introduced to the public for the first time the new "Jubilee Head" design. Complete 1887 proof sets contain the threepence, sixpence, shilling, florin, halfcrown, double florin, crown, half sovereign, sovereign, two pounds and five pounds gold. Sets have been seen in a number of different case designs, no single one which can be rated as official. The market value for a proof set would be in the $1,000.00 range. In addition, many uncirculated 1887 sets were made up by various jewelers and coin dealers. Many of these have a proof-like surface and contain "first-strike" mint specimens. As a matter of information, we mention that an uncirculated set now brings $450.-00 to $500.00.

1893 Queen Victoria proof set. Mintage: 773 sets. Issued on the occasion of design modification. This set illustrates for the first time the revised effigy of Queen Victoria, the "Old Head" or "Veiled Head" design. This contains the Maundy set, sixpence, shilling, florin, half crown, crown, half sovereign, two pounds and five pounds gold. Complete sets are quite scarce today. Current market value: approximately $1,500.00 based on two recent sale records.

1902 King Edward VII proof set. Issued to commemorate the first coinage of this monarch. This particular set was issued in two forms: The "Short" set containing the Maundy set, sixpence, shilling, florin, half crown, crown, half sovereign and sovereign. Also the "Long" set which contains all of the above plus the two pounds and five pounds gold. Original cases for both sets are velvet-lined with a red leather exterior. The surface of the 1902 sets is unique in British numismatics . . . the matte proof finish adopted from the French Mint. 8,066 long sets and 7,056 short sets were issued. A long set currently sells for $675.00 to $750.00, a short set commands $250.00 to $275.00. The demand for these 1902 sets has been heightened in recent months due to breaking them up for inclusion in English type collections. As most English collectors well know, uncirculated silver coinage of King Edward is almost non-existent; thus the proof sets provide an attractive alternative.

1911 King George V proof set. Issued to commemorate the first coinage of King George V. This set was issued by the Royal Mint in three forms: 1. The silver set which contains four Maundy coins plus the sixpence, shilling, florin and half crown. 2,241 of these sets were issued. 2. The "Short" set which contains the above silver coins plus the gold half sovereign and sovereign. Only 952 short sets were issued. 3. The "Long" set which contains all of the items is the short set plus the two pounds and five pounds gold. 2,812 long sets were issued. All of these sets were originally issued in red leather cases, with the exception of the 1911 silver sets which are occasionally found in cardboard boxes. Current market value: $950.00 to $1,000.00. In strong demand as the scarcest 20th century proof set.

1927 King George V proof set. Issued to illustrate the modification in coinage design. This set contains the threepence, sixpence, shilling, florin, half crown and crown. An important set as four of the six pieces in the set were struck only in proof condition, with no additional pieces of their date and type being struck for circulation. The 1927 set is one of the most popular of all British proof sets, and there has always been a strong demand for them both in America and in England. These sets were originally issued at a cost of 15 shillings per set in 1927. 15,030 sets in all were issued. The bulk of these were purchased by people desiring them as souvenirs, rather than by dyed-in-the-wool numismatists. As a result, probably most of these sets were spent and the coins found their way into circulation over the ensuing years. This is amply evident as attested by the number of circulated 1927 crowns known today. All 1927 crowns, regardless of condition, had their origin in 1927 proof sets. 1927 crowns in worn condition are available today with some frequency, thus leading us to conjecture that perhaps 5,000 choice remaining sets survive. The 1927 set was issued in two ways: in a red cardboard case and in a red leather case. The current market value of a 1927 set is in the $300.00 to $375.00 range for a choice set.

1937 King George VI set. Issued to illustrate the first coinage of King George VI. This set was issued in two separate forms: the gold set which contains the half sovereign, sovereign, two pounds and five pounds gold, of which 5,501 sets were issued and the minor set which contains all denominations from the farthing through the crown. Of the minor sets, 26,402 were struck. Both sets come in attractive dark maroon leather case with a crest on the cover. Sometimes the minor set is seen in a red cardboard case. The gold set sells for $550.00 to $600.00 today; the minor set sells for close to $150.00.

1950 King George VI proof set. This is the only English proof set issued strictly for numismatic purposes. To satisfy the demands of collectors 7,513 sets were is-

1951 King George VI. This set was issued on the occasion of the Festival of Britain. Mintage: 20,000 sets of which approximately half were sold to the public rather than collectors. Many of these were sold on the streets of London by vendors. This set contains all denominations from the farthing through the crown. The 1951 sets were issued in square cardboard boxes of various col-

1953 Queen Elizabeth II. Issued on the coronation of Queen Elizabeth. Cointains all denominations from the farthing through the crown. Mintage: 40,000 sets. Issued in an attractive leatherette-covered metal case with a velvet interior, a popular set for several reasons . . . as a coronation issue, as "type" coins, as 1953 coins are the only years of their type, and also as a beginning of the coinage of Queen Elizabeth. Current market value is

by C. F. Verbeke CECRETARY of the Treasury, Douglas Dillon, has assured Senator A. Willis Robertson of his favorable concern over the 45 million silver dollar appropriation recently reinstated by the Senate Secretary Dillon feels the current coin shortage can be partially solved by the issuance of silver dollars, at least in the West. In a letter dated July 23 addressed to Senator Robertson, Secretary Dillon stated: "In connection with the coming conference on Treasury appropriations, there is in disagreement, as you know, an item of $600,000 for the manufacture of 45 million silver dollars in fiscal 1965. I wanted to re-emphasize the interest of the Treasury Department in securing approval of this item.

While I know you are familiar with our problem, I wanted to reassure you that the administration feels it important to continue the use of the silver dollar, as it is one of the six standard coins prescribed by law, and is particularly used as an ordinary and traditional medium of exchange in many far western States. Also, use of the silver dollar will, to a great extent in the West at least, alleviate the heavy demands we have had on the quarter and 50-cent pieces. This eventually will about balance out the use of silver, as the minting of enough halves and quarters to substitute for the 45 million silver dollars will take almost as much metal for the same end use.

You are fully aware of the Treasury's crash program for the minting of some 8 billion coins this fiscal year, with still higher production planned for fiscal 1966. Under this program we are acquiring many presses from the Department of Defense, GSA, and private industry and converting them for emergency use, although they will not be suitable nor economical on a long-range basis With these presses now, however, and the continued purchase of bronze and nickel strip, we will be able to produce the 45 million silver dollars without cutting down on the production of coin of smaller denominations.

Present plans call for the minting of the dollars, if approved, at the Denver Mint only using an old design, and the 1964 date, if the bill for that purpose becomes law, as we hope will be the case.

If this item is approved in our appropriation bill it would be our policy to distribute the silver dollars through the Federal Reserve banks in the West where they are used as a medium of exhange. We would not use them in redemption of silver certificates at the

"PREFERRED" MINT SETS U.S. TREASURY SEALED

See the April 20, 1964 issue of Coin World, Page 3. You will notice that there were fewer Mint Sets sold by the U. S. Mint than Proof Sets. These sets are in the original polyethelene packets as purchased from the U. S. mint. THEY HAVE BEEN PACKED LIKE THIS ONLY SINCE 1959. They contain one of each coin from the Philadelphia and Denver Mint, a total of ten coins in each set.

What is the outlook for future issues of British proof sets? The outlook at this point is uncertain as the Royal Mint is not prone to issuing its plans in advance. There does not seem to be any likelihood that sets will be issued on a regular basis for collectors as the United States and Canadian mints have done. Rather, coinage of proof sets will probably be limited to special occasions. Now that a new modified portrait of Queen Elizabeth has been adopted there is the possibility that a proof set will be issued soon illustrating the first year in which

Editor's note.—It is interesting to note that Secretary Dillon refers to the "old design" usage. This would definitely indicate the reissuance of the Peace type design, with a 1964 date at perpetuity however. The Denver mint seems to have been selected as the production site. The fact distribution would only take place through Federal Reserve banks in the West is an enigma however. Why the discretionary limitation? In this conjunction one may also rightfully ask: How are Federal Reserve banks faring with the distribution of Kennedy half dollars?

Senator Mansfield of Montana who only last month made an impassionate plea before the U.S. Senate urging the resumption of silver dollar minting expressed new concern over the situation this past week when he stated: "The disappearance of the silver dollar and the scarcity of other coins in circulation have become matters of national concern. Insofar as the silver dollar is concerned, this problem is particularly acute in the State of Montana and its neighboring States, where it is a preferred medium of exchange. The cartwheel has been consigned to the oblivion of private numismatic collections; and these days, apparently, just about everyone is a numismatist.

Its current use is a reminder of this heritage, as well as a significant element in the commercial life of Montana and other Western States. It is my hope that the conference committee which presently is considering relevant legislation will act to provide for additional coinage of the cartwheels."

Senator Mansfield also referred to a Washington Post article dated July 7, called Life and Times of Our Silver Dollar by Bart Barnes. The article is recommended for reading in spite of a rather superficial treatment of the subject.

Buffalo, N.Y. — The national coin shortage has grown so severe that the New Jersey Turnpike Authority had to take up a collection from area churches, swapping greenbacks for Sunday coin donations.

The Pennsylvania turnpike's nickel and dime shortage in the Pittsburgh area led to a request that a restaurant concessionaire investigate the possibility of buying tips from waitresses.

According to the American Bridge, Tunnel and Turnpike Association, operators of the country's toll roads, bridges and tunnels, there is fear that, later this summer, when the motoring season hits its peak, severe difficulties in making change will occur.

Lawrence A. Rubin, association president, says his unit's survey showed different effects from the coin scarcity, depending on the location and the type of facility involved. He appealed publicly to drivers to present the correct change whenever possible at toll booths.

"Toll facilities and their patrons will face the moment of truth some time in August," he declared. "If both the motorists and the toll collectors can't get coins there are liable to be some long, hot lines at the toll booths."

So far there have been no traffic delays reported as a result of the coin shortage, but the situation has called for some unusual gimmicks to handle it, such as the church collection and tip-buying moves.

The Jersey authority has since made more conventional and permanent arrangements with banks handling the turnpike accounts. On the Jersey and the Dallas-Fort Worth, Tex., turnpikes half-dollars, have proved particularly scarce. The Pennsylvania and others need nickels and dimes.

The Macinac Bridge authority in Michigan, which charges $3.75 for a five-mile crossing, is chronically short of quarters since patrons normally hand collectors $4 or $5.

Some toll facilities, on the other hand, especially those depending heavily on automatic collection machines, have more coins than they need, Mr. Rubin said,

He said this was true of the Richmond-Petersburg tumpike in Virginia and the Garden State parkway in New Jersey, which collects 56 per cent of its total revenue automatically in coins.

Mr. Rubin warned that if mitorists did not come up with the right change at toll booths the result might well be chaos.

Payne Publishing Company, 13725 S. Normandie of Gardena, California has announced the release of a new, revised edition of "The Profit March of Your Coin Investment", by George W. Haylings.

Now in its third printing, with a total of 20,000 copies in print, the new edition contains all past information plus previously unpublished material covering the silver dollar market.

Mr. Haylings has researched the silver dollar series in depth. Complete price histories of the Morgan and Peace dollars are covered to date.

The teletypewriter operates just the same as your telephone — except that you have your conversation in writing.

You dial any other NACD member, numismatic publications, suppliers, hotels, hamles, credit agencies, etc., in the United States and Canada. When the party you dialed answers, you then type out what you want to say and the other party responds. This is done in complete privacy and you have a written record of your discussion.

You have access to up-to-the-minute market summaries through members who belong to the major teletypewriter circuits.

You pay a small charge for each call you make, and the messages you send to long distance points are less than your toll charges on telephone calls.

You can save money on phone calls through the use of the teletypewriter — and your savings on long distance calls alone should pay for your membership.

Space City Averages:

How They Are Obtained

With close to 1,500 separate statistics appearing each week in PACE, a need exists to express this information in graphic form for busy readers.

a need exists to express this information in graphic form for busy readers. We are currently charting eight different coin series each week as you see below. These charts are based on Space City Averages, an arbitrarily chosen group of rolls which we feel are representative of the total for that series

To be included in the Space City Averages rolls are chosen on the basis of three factors: (1) their trading is constant, (2) they are widely held, and (3) they are indicative of the It is obvious infrequently traded items, closely held items, and extremes in the series would not serve this purpose.

Each week the statistical staff of PACE prepares these averages from the information obtained on The American Numismatics Exchange transactions.

The amount expressed in the Space City averages is the total market bid prices for the rolls included in the averages. This is a dollar figure and is compared with previous week, month, and year figures for analysis.

MARKET SUMMARY

By Russell Brown

ONE of the busiest weeks on record went into the books over the past five days and several issues were standout performers. The 1955-P half dollar caught fire Wednesday morning and rose $15 in six hours. The 1959 proof set was in heavy demand for the entire week with the bid price creeping up from an opening of $10 to the $13 range. Few if any sets of the 1959 date were offered for sale.

1951-S Jefferson nickels leaped ahead $20 in heavy Jefferson activity that saw many issues requested for the first time in a month. And four issues of the Peace dollar series made large advances.

Along with the winners came a few losers. 1964 proof sets weakened somewhat by midweek and though there were many offers to sell, few customers made an appearance. Franklin half dollars were very weak with only the 1955-P showing any prosperity.

The new computer-teletype system was heavily tested during the middle of the week with the tape running as much as ten minutes late due to extremely heavy all-circuit sell offers by large numbers of dealers. Also prominent were many offers to buy in the lower denominations. A.N.E. officials were quite happy to have the new computerized equipment bearing the load since the old system which was recently replaced would not have been capable of carrying the load.

Suffering through a wave of selling that dropped prices on some seventeen issues, Morgan dollars appeared in headlong decline. The CC mints were hard hit with many losses registered in two figures. Only five issues advanced and the largest, by the 1878-CC was only for five dollars.

Lincoln cents showed more tape activity than at any time since early May. Many bids and asks were noted on issues which up to now have been completely dormant. However, the general tone was one of lowering prices. Declines outnumbered advances ten to six. No large price movements were noted however.

Jefferson nickels were bid for on an across-the-board fashion for the first time in weeks. Though many of the bids were of the low, experimental nature, they were at least present, which is more than we have been able to say for quite a while.

It was noticed that the 1950-D again showed some activity and rose in value some five dollars.

Roosevelt dimes were quite with the only activity being shown by the 1955 issues. In fact the volume in the '55s equaled the volume for the rest of the series. Many offers were noted for threeroll sets of the 1955 P, D and S. Advances equaled declines and the series could be considered as unchanged for the week.

Washington quarters continued their quiet advance to still another new high for the year with five advances against three declines. The declines were of a very minor nature. Participating in a week of heavy 1955 activity was the 1955-D quarter with an increase of five dollars.

Franklin halves were quietly continuing their downward move this week with the only activity in the series taking place in the P mint issues. With the exception of the 1955-P, there was very little volume to speak of.

Peace dollars were quietly on the rise with four issues making stong advances and the rest of the series wanted but not obtainable at last week's prices. The 1927-P and 1925-S both rose $50 or more with few rolls present in the market even at the increased prices.

The circulated market continued its downward trend with only 1951-S nickels and 1955-P half dollars making small advances.

On the Canadian front, the 1964 set continued in heavy demand with prices as high as eleven dollars bid at some times. The 1963 set seems hard pressed to stay at a higher level than the 1964 and the proof like dollars of both years are also in heavy demand.

THE MARKET OPINION

This was the week of 1955 coinage. The 1955-P half dollar was joined in its prosperity by the 1955-D quarter, all of the 1955 Roosevelt dimes, the 1955 proof set and the 1955-S cent. Even the 1955-P Jefferson nickel, while not gaining in value, experienced heavy trading and demand at a price of $115 and it is to be remembered that last week it rose $5. It is strange that activity in a date would cross so many denominational lines. Only the 1955-D nickel showed a decline.

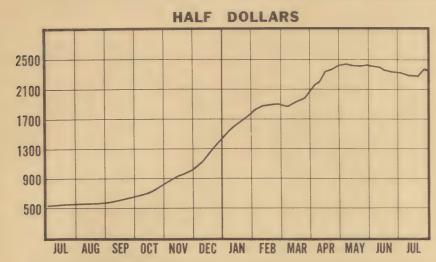

It appears that the rush to obtain a specimen (or a hundred specimens as the case may be) of the 1964 proof set is slowing considerably. While all of the sets of the fifties are still in demand with the possible exception of the 1957 set, there are virtually no bids to be seen for the current year's set. And with the production and delivery of two million more 1964 sets many are wondering how this issue will fare during the fall and winter months ahead. Bear in mind that they are in decline while a tremendous run on all sets is in progress. What will happen when the general interest in all sets cools as it must within the next few weeks?

American Numismatics Exchange Transactions

BU Roll Prices as of Wednesday, July 29, 1964

These bid and asked prices, from the American Numismatic Exchange Inc., do not necessarily represent actual transactions. They are a guide to the range within which these coins could have been sold (indicated by the "bid") or bought (indicated by the "asked") at the time of compilation. Price changes are obtained by comparison of weekly bid prices.

Prices are wholesale quotations compiled from the American Numismatic Exchange teletype system which serves 195 coin dealers across the country.

Retention

"At this point, may I say that we at Coin World as non-coindealing citizens, are constantly aware that the chief function of the Bureau of the Mint is to provide coins for the transaction of the Nation's business, and that despite a worsening coin shortage, the Bureau of the Mint has been most generous and fair with the coin collector - far more generous and far more considerate than some of 'coin grabbers' deserve."

"But who can guarantee that the continuance of the date will do any more than disrupt tradition? Can you legislate larceny out of peoples' hearts?"

"Do we have a solution to control the speculators in the coin collecting hobby, other than the continuance of the 1961 date on coins: I repeat: Can you legislate larceny out of peoples' hearts?"

"We are concerned as to how the 1964 date continuance will affect the small businessman, the coin dealer, rather than the

'quick-buck larceny-hearted big boys'.'

Mrs. Russell's testimony was briefly interrupted by a remark of Senator Bennett of Utah who stated: "Now these people who represent a rise in dealers and meetings aren't the results of a sudden increase in interest in rare coins. This increase corresponds too much with the silver price. The coincidence is too great, so I think that many of these 5,000 dealers have got what you call larceny in their hearts I really think the chairman has hit upon the truth of the situation. You are being used to pull the chestnuts out of the fire, not for the man who wants one rare coin or one coin of each kind, but the man who has bought them by the bags and by the tons, knowing that the more coins we mint in the 10-cent values and up, the sooner the Treasury will be out of silver and the sooner the day will come when the metal value of coins will exceed the monetary value."

"The coin collectors who have talked to me and written me are the ones you call larceny boys. They are not the people who were concerned about their ability to have one coin a set.'

Mrs. Russell pursued her testimony and at one point stated: "I feel that the Senator from Utah has probably overestimated the economic background of these 5,000 coin dealers who would not have the knowledge or inclination to translate their stock into silver

Next witness to testify was Mr. G. Edward Cooper speaking in behalf of the American Bankers Association, he went to what he believes to be the heart of the problem and stated: "In our area all of the banks in the area are being circularized by a dealer who states in his memorandum to the banks: 'I am in a position to deliver to your bank all denominations of circulated coin for whatever amounts of uncirculated coin you would make available to me. The amount of uncirculated coin you would favor me with will be extremely less than the amount I would deliver to your bank by truck. For further explanations, please feel free to call me on the phone and reverse the charges. I will be very happy to let you know what you would receive in circulated coins for the uncirculated coins.' The previous memorandum from him quoted prices, but we did not have uncirculated coins available for him He would sell us the circulated coins by bags at a premium averaging about 5 percent. A similar dealer, similar to this one called the other day and informed us that he had available in his inventory $100,000 in nickels, and he would be willing to swap all or any part of that $100,000 in nickels for any uncirculated coins of any year that we would have available. We had been approached on a swapping of the Kennedy half dollars; we have been offered $5,000 worth of Kennedy half dollars at face value for $1,000 of uncirculated dimes or some other amount of uncirculated nickels or pennies.'

The hearings concluded with the testimony of Mrs. Eva Adams, Director of the Mint, whose remarks directed at coin speculators included: "From all sections of the country come reports, surveys, stories, and evidence of the activities of coin speculators - and you note I emphasize the word 'speculators' - who are putting away bags and bags of coins of all kinds in the hope they can later sell these hoarded treasures and reap fantastic profits. These are persons who would disregard the public interest, the plight of the honest coin collector, and selfishly and ruthlessly put the coin of the realm to use for purely personal profits. The mint is not about to take pity on professional profiteers such as these, and it is this group which connives to get hundreds of bags of coin to trade in for personal gain alone. It is only this group who will, we feel certain, be hurt if, by December 1, 1964, the coin shortage justifies retention of the 1964 date on coins made in the years 1965."

"It is when the speculators buy these coins, put them away and then in turn sell them at a premium that they are parasites on the operation of the mint and this we resent.
